1. WHAT IS A BANKRUPTCY NOTICE?

- 1.1. A bankruptcy notice is a formal notice of demand requiring a debtor to pay a judgment debt. Pursuant to section 41 of the Bankruptcy Act 1966 (“the Act”), the Official Receiver may issue a bankruptcy notice on the application of a creditor who has satisfied various requirements.
- 1.2. Failure by a debtor to comply with a bankruptcy notice constitutes an “act of bankruptcy” pursuant to section 40 of the Act.
- 1.3. In a situation where a debtor has committed an act of bankruptcy in the preceding six months, a creditor may apply (referred to as a “creditor’s petition”) to the Federal Court or Federal Circuit Court for an order that a debtor be made bankrupt (referred to as a “sequestration order”). A majority of creditors’ petitions presented to the court are based on debtors’ failures to comply with bankruptcy notices.

2. PROCESSING A BANKRUPTCY NOTICE APPLICATION

The application

- 2.1. An application for a bankruptcy notice can be made by the creditor or the creditor’s solicitor/duly authorised agent. Where a solicitor/agent is applying for the issue of a bankruptcy notice on behalf of a client, this should be indicated during the application process. The solicitor/agent needs to be satisfied that the requisite authority to apply for the bankruptcy notice to be issued has been obtained.
- 2.2. Prior to applying for a bankruptcy notice, a creditor who is not registered for AFSA’s Online Services will need to register on AFSA’s website so that applications can be submitted to the Official Receiver via the website.
- 2.3. The appropriate application fee will have to be paid as part of the online application process. More information about this can be found below.
- 2.4. To apply online for the issue of a bankruptcy notice, the creditor will need to have one of the following:
 - a. a copy of the sealed or certified judgment/s or order/s
 - b. a certificate of the judgment/s or order/s sealed by the court or signed by an officer of the court, or
 - c. a copy of the entry of the judgment/s or order/s certified as a true copy of that entry and sealed by the court or signed by an officer of the court.
- 2.5. An application for a bankruptcy notice must be submitted via AFSA’s Online Services (once registered as a user).

- 2.6. An application for a bankruptcy notice that does not comply with the requirements outlined above may be returned for resubmission.

The application fee

- 2.7. A creditor applying for the issue of a bankruptcy notice must pay the application fee at the time of lodging the application unless an alternative payment arrangement has been agreed with AFSA. The fee may be paid by cash, bank cheque or credit card.
- 2.8. The application fee attaches to the application for issue of a bankruptcy notice and not the issue of a notice. This means that the fee is payable when the application is made, even if the notice is not ultimately issued by the Official Receiver.
- 2.9. A creditor who frequently applies for the issue of bankruptcy notices may wish to consider becoming an on-account customer with AFSA. Details about this can be found here.
- 2.10. The fee for the application for issue of a bankruptcy notice is GST exempt. A GST invoice is therefore not issued to the applicant.
- 2.11. The application fee cannot be waived or refunded where a creditor later discovers that there was an error or deficiency in the application and/or attachments that were submitted to the Official Receiver.

Judgment/order overview

- 2.12. A precondition to the issue of a bankruptcy notice is the existence of either:
- a final judgment or final order which is for an amount of at least $5000, or
 - two or more final judgments or final orders that, taken together, are for an amount of at least $5000.
- 2.13. During the application process, one of the documents referred to in paragraph 2.4 will need to be attached or uploaded.
- 2.14. Some jurisdictions provide for the “extraction” of judgments electronically rather than on paper. Whether a judgment that has been extracted electronically will be sufficient to support a bankruptcy notice will depend on State or Territory legislation in respect of electronic judgments.

The $5000 minimum

- 2.15. The amount outstanding under the judgment(s) or order(s) at the time that the bankruptcy notice is applied for must be at least $5000.

EXAMPLE 1

A judgment for $4900 plus $100 of pre-judgment interest plus $100 of costs is a judgment for $5100 and will meet this requirement.

EXAMPLE 2

A judgment for $4900 will not meet the requirement if, at the time of applying for issue of the bankruptcy notice, the amount owing pursuant to that judgment may be $4900 plus $200 of post-judgment interest.

2.16. On occasion, a judgment or order may be issued by a court that refers to a number of other judgments/orders and directs their payment (for example, where a number of orders for costs are made during an action and a final judgment is made that refers to the previous costs orders and directs their payment). An application based on this judgment should have the final judgment and the other orders referred to in that judgment uploaded.

Post-judgment interest

2.17. Interest on a judgment or order amount can only be claimed if allowed by the terms of the judgment or order or by the rules of the court in which the judgment or order was given. An amount of interest must be specified (hereafter referred to as “post-judgment interest”).

2.18. The schedule of the post-judgment interest calculation must be completed if interest is claimed for any part of the period after the date of the judgment or order. The interest claim period should be completed, as well as the statutory provision under which the post-judgment interest is claimed, the principal on which the interest is claimed, the rate of interest and the total interest claimed.

2.19. If more than one judgment or order is relied upon, a separate interest commencement date is likely to apply for each judgment or order. The Official Receiver may review the interest calculation and may query a calculation that could not on any reasonable or objective assessment be correct (that is, where there is an obvious or immediately apparent defect); however, the Official Receiver will not verify the calculation of the interest claimed and correct arithmetic calculation is a matter entirely for the creditor. Applicants will have the assistance of an online calculation tool for this purpose.

2.20. A creditor may elect to not claim post-judgment interest rather than calculate the amount.

Judgment/order more than six years old

2.21. Paragraph 41(3)(c) of the Bankruptcy Act prohibits the issue of a bankruptcy notice based on a judgment or order more than six years old.

Stayed and suspended judgments/orders

- 2.22. A court may order that a judgment or order is stayed or suspended. Such a judgment or order cannot support the issue of a bankruptcy notice as it is a requirement that the creditor be in a position to issue immediate execution on the judgment or order.

EXAMPLE 3

A judgment debtor appeals a judgment and applies for and obtains a stay of the judgment pending appeal. The creditor cannot rely on the judgment for the issue of bankruptcy notice because of the stay. (However, an appeal (without a stay order) does not automatically suspend the effect of a judgment for enforcement purposes – it is necessary for a court to order a stay of execution, otherwise execution of the judgment can continue even if there is an appeal.)

- 2.23. A judgment may automatically be stayed or suspended pending some prerequisite being satisfied. A judgment subject to a precondition being satisfied to effect enforcement cannot support the issue of a bankruptcy notice unless that precondition has been satisfied.

EXAMPLE 4

The terms of a judgment may explicitly state that it is to be suspended for a set period.

EXAMPLE 5

Section 21B of the Crimes Act 1914 (Cth) provides that a certificate specifying certain details of a reparation order made in Commonwealth criminal proceedings must be filed in a civil court before it becomes a “final judgment”.

Costs included in judgment

- 2.24. A court may order that the payment of costs be “taxed”. A bare order for costs without specifying an amount is an order for taxed costs. The costs order cannot be enforced (nor a bankruptcy notice issued based upon it) until taxation by the court or assessment by an assessor has occurred and a sealed bill of costs or a certificate is issued.
- 2.25. In most jurisdictions, the sealed bill of costs or certificate issued following taxation or assessment of the bill is likely to constitute a “final order” without the requirement to provide a copy of the original judgment or order directing payment of costs. However, that will depend on the terms of legislation or other statutory instrument (usually the relevant Rules of Court) that governs taxation or assessment of costs in that jurisdiction.

- 2.26. If an application for a bankruptcy notice is based wholly or in part on an order for taxed costs, a copy of the original judgment (or copy certified by the court) should accompany an original of the sealed bill or certificate. However, where the creditor chooses not to present the original judgment or order, the creditor should provide in writing the legislative authority that directs that the bill or certificate be treated as a “final order”. This can be uploaded through AFSA’s Online Services.
- 2.27. If a judgment or order includes a direction for the payment of costs to be taxed, the creditor may elect not to have the costs taxed and instead apply for the issue of a bankruptcy notice based solely on the balance of the judgment, provided the balance exceeds the $5000 statutory minimum.

Foreign judgments and debts in foreign currency

- 2.28. A bankruptcy notice can be issued based on a judgment or order obtained from a court outside Australia. As with all other bankruptcy notices, the creditor must be in a position to issue immediate execution. This will usually require registration of the foreign judgment in an Australian court.
- 2.29. The Official Receiver will require evidence of registration of the judgment or an explanation why registration is not required for the judgment to be enforced.
- 2.30. Where a judgment provides for a debt in foreign currency, Bankruptcy Regulation 4.04 requires that “the conversion of an amount of foreign currency into an equivalent amount of Australian currency must be done in accordance with the telegraphic rate of exchange prevailing on the second day before the day when the application to which the conversion applies is lodged”.
- 2.31. The decision of GE Commercial Australasia Pty Ltd v Tinkler, in the matter of Nathan Tinkler [2016] FCA 55 (9 February 2016) indicates at paragraph 65 that a suitable method for a creditor to convert an amount of indebtedness at the “rate of exchange prevailing” for use on a bankruptcy notice is to:
- a. obtain a rate that is published by a banking institution as generally available for the relevant date (the relevant date being two days before the day on which the creditor intends to apply for the bankruptcy notice) and apply it to calculate an Australian dollar amount which is equivalent to the amount of the judgment or order which is expressed in a foreign currency, and to use the rate and the resulting calculation when completing the creditor’s bankruptcy notice, or
 - b. obtain a rate that is published as having been generally available for the relevant date (the relevant date being two days before the day on which the creditor intends to apply for the bankruptcy notice) and apply it to calculate an Australian dollar amount which is equivalent to the amount of the judgment or order which is expressed in a foreign currency, and to the use the rate and the resulting calculation when completing the creditors bankruptcy notice.

In both methods a and b, the rate should be a rate that answers the description “telegraphic rate of exchange” for the currency of the debt to Australian dollars.

- 2.32. The decision of [GE Commercial Australasia Pty Ltd v Tinkler, in the matter of Nathan Tinkler \[2016\] FCA 55 \(9 February 2016\)](#) indicates at paragraph 66 that creditors do not need to provide evidence of rates they may obtain from a banking institution or from a published source of information.

Assigned debts

- 2.33. Paragraph 40(3)(d) of the Act provides that a person, who is for the time being entitled to enforce a final judgment or final order for the payment of money, shall be deemed to be a creditor who has obtained a final judgment or final order (and hence is entitled to seek the issue of a bankruptcy notice if the other relevant criteria are satisfied).
- 2.34. The courts have recognised that the assignee of a debt on which a judgment has been obtained can be a person to whom paragraph 40(3)(d) applies. However, in order to demonstrate that the person is “for the time being entitled to enforce” the judgment, there must be no barriers to that enforcement. Where the leave of the court is required before the person can enforce the judgment, that leave must be obtained before paragraph 40(3)(d) can apply – see, for example, [Re Abigroup Limited v Gennaro Abignano \[1992\] FCA 567; \(1992\) 39 FCR 74, \(1992\) 112 ALR 497 \(27 November 1992\)](#).
- 2.35. Where a creditor (the assignee) has been assigned the debt by another (the assignor), the Official Receiver will require proof of the assignment to be lodged with the application for the bankruptcy notice.
- 2.36. In those locations where the Uniform Civil Procedure Rules apply, an assignee may require the leave of the court before enforcement of the debt. The issue of the bankruptcy notice is not certification that there are no barriers that would prevent the enforcement of a debt.
- 2.37. The Official Receiver may require evidence that an assignee has leave to enforce a judgment before making a decision regarding issuing a bankruptcy notice.

Tribunal orders

- 2.38. A bankruptcy notice may be issued based on an order of a tribunal. Where the legislation establishing the relevant tribunal allows for the registration of orders/decisions with a court, the onus is on the applicant creditor to do so before applying for the bankruptcy notice.

Execution and issue of the bankruptcy notice

- 2.39. Upon issue of the bankruptcy notice, it is endorsed by the Official Receiver and a bankruptcy notice registration number and the date of issue are inserted.
- 2.40. Only one bankruptcy notice is issued by the Official Receiver. The applicant may wish to make additional copies of the endorsed bankruptcy notice for his or her own records and/or if the notice is required to be given to more than one debtor.

3. THE OFFICIAL RECEIVER'S ROLE

- 3.1. The role of the Official Receiver¹ in issuing bankruptcy notices includes:
- a. providing information on the application procedure and the form for use
 - b. when an application for issue of a bankruptcy notice is received from a creditor, assessing whether to issue it or return the application to the creditor with suggested amendments
 - c. making amendments to a previously-issued bankruptcy notice upon application by the creditor, if the requested amendments are supported by a court order
 - d. extending the period for service of a bankruptcy notice upon application by the creditor.
- 3.2. The Official Receiver will not issue a bankruptcy notice if there is an obvious or immediately apparent defect in the information provided.

Defects the Official Receiver will identify

- 3.3. The Official Receiver will assess the bankruptcy notice application to ensure that there are no obvious or immediately apparent defects that would render it invalid.

The Official Receiver will review a bankruptcy notice to ensure that:

- where an application is lodged online, all of the information required for assessment has been included
- it is based on one or more final judgment(s) or order(s), the total of which equals or exceeds the statutory minimum amount
- the judgment(s) or order(s) relied upon are not more than six years old
- the debtor and creditor have been adequately and accurately described (with reference to the judgment(s) or order(s)) to avoid misleading the debtor

¹ A reference to the Official Receiver in this paper also refers to a delegate of the Official Receiver

- the requirements for the debtor to comply with the notice are clear
- if interest is included, the basis on which interest has been charged and calculated is clear.

Defects the Official Receiver will not identify

- 3.4. The issue of a bankruptcy notice does not represent a certification of all aspects of the bankruptcy notice or a guarantee that it will support the issue of a creditor's petition.
- 3.5. The Official Receiver will not identify defects that are not obvious or immediately apparent on the face of the bankruptcy notice application.

The Official Receiver will not:

- go behind a judgment or order to ensure there is no counter-claim, set-off or cross-demand
- certify that a judgment or order is “final” (that is, there is nothing which would prevent the creditor seeking to execute it, such as statutory barriers or a stay of execution)
- recalculate any interest claimed to ensure that the amount is correct
- certify that the section under which interest is claimed is the correct section in the circumstances of the judgment or order
- conduct a search of the National Personal Insolvency Index (“NPII”) to ascertain whether the bankrupt named in the bankruptcy notice application is already bankrupt or subject to either a debt agreement or personal insolvency agreement. (A creditor may wish to consider conducting a search of the NPII and information about this process is available on AFSA's website.)

- 3.6. In situations where the Official Receiver identifies an apparent defect in the application and contacts the creditor and the creditor then confirms that the details therein are in fact correct, notes of communications with the creditor will be retained by the Official Receiver.

Debtor's address

- 3.7. Although the Act and Regulations do not specifically reference a bankruptcy notice including a street address of the debtor, failure to include this may result in a challenge to the validity of the bankruptcy notice.
- 3.8. It is also the case that, if the debtor does not comply with the bankruptcy notice and the creditor wishes to lodge a petition with the court for the debtor's bankruptcy, the court does require the creditor's petition to reveal an address for service so difficulties could be encountered at that stage.

4. SERVICE OF A BANKRUPTCY NOTICE ON THE DEBTOR

- 4.1. The bankruptcy notice must be served on the debtor within six months of the issue of the notice.
- 4.2. Given the significant consequences of non-compliance with a bankruptcy notice, including potential bankruptcy proceedings in the court, a creditor should consider personal delivery to the debtor. Court rules require that an affidavit of service of the bankruptcy notice be filed with an application for a creditor's petition.
- 4.3. Note 2 of Bankruptcy Regulation 4.02A provides that a bankruptcy notice may be served by any of the methods mentioned in Bankruptcy Regulation 16.01 and such methods include post, courier, fax, email etc. Nevertheless, it is recommended that a creditor seek independent legal advice regarding the use of these alternative service methods, particularly if subsequent bankruptcy proceedings are anticipated.

5. EXTENSION OF TIME WITHIN WHICH TO SERVE A BANKRUPTCY NOTICE

- 5.1. Where the creditor is unable to serve the notice on the debtor within six months from the date of issue of the notice, the creditor can apply for an extension. The application to the Official Receiver may be made either before or after the initial six months have expired.
- 5.2. A fee is payable when applying for an extension of time in which to serve a bankruptcy notice on a debtor.
- 5.3. The Official Receiver's power to extend the time for service of the notice on the debtor is discretionary.
- 5.4. An application for an extension of time for service of a bankruptcy notice must be accompanied by a statement by the creditor or the creditor's agent explaining why an extension is required. The statement should outline what attempts have been made to serve the bankruptcy notice within the original six-month period.

An application for extension of time within which to serve should include details of:

- the number of attempts by a process server or other agent to serve the notice
- the number of locations at which service has been attempted
- the attempts made to locate the debtor other than at known addresses
- the likelihood that the notice will be successfully served if an extension is granted.

- 5.5. The Official Receiver is entitled to extend the time for service of the bankruptcy notice for any period considered appropriate. However, periods of extension will generally only be granted in blocks of up to six months from the original date of expiry of the bankruptcy notice.
- 5.6. An application to extend the time within which to serve the bankruptcy notice that is made more than six months after the bankruptcy notice was originally issued will only be granted in exceptional circumstances.

An application for extension of time for the service of a bankruptcy notice made more than six months after it was originally issued must, in addition to the information outlined in paragraph 5.4 and the text box following that paragraph, include:

- a clear explanation of why the application was not made earlier
- reasons why an extension is to be preferred over the issue of a fresh notice.

- 5.7. More than one extension can be granted by the Official Receiver. However, a second (and any subsequent) extension will only be granted in exceptional circumstances.

An application for a second or subsequent extension of time within which to serve a bankruptcy notice should, in addition to the information outlined in paragraph 5.4 and the text box following that paragraph, include:

- what further attempts to locate and serve the debtor have been made in the period since the previous extension was granted
- the likelihood of successfully serving the notice if another extension is granted, taking into account the failure to serve in the period since the previous extension was granted (that is, why service is more likely now than in the previous extended period).

- 5.8. An extension is given by way of an extension notice issued by the Official Receiver.

6. AMENDMENT OF AN ISSUED NOTICE

- 6.1. The Official Receiver will only amend a bankruptcy notice when the amendment is ordered by the court.
- 6.2. Should a creditor require amendments to a bankruptcy notice that has been issued but not served without there being a court order requiring an amendment, an application for a new notice will be necessary and another application fee will be payable.

- 6.3. Where amendments are ordered by a court, the creditor is required to return the endorsed bankruptcy notice that was issued by the Official Receiver, noting the changes required by neatly striking through the relevant original text and inserting the replacement text by hand. This will need to be submitted with a copy of the court order.
- 6.4. The first page of the amended bankruptcy notice will then be reviewed and, if in order, endorsed by the Official Receiver with the date the amended notice was issued.

7. THE SEQUESTRATION ORDER (BANKRUPTCY) PROCESS

- 7.1. Where a creditor wishes to petition the court to have a debtor made bankrupt, certain conditions must be satisfied. These are outlined in sections 43 and 44 of the Act and are:
 - the debtor must have an Australian connection
 - the debtor must owe a debt of $5000, or two or more debts that amount to $5000 or more
 - that the debt(s) is a liquidated sum
 - that the debt(s) is payable immediately or at a certain future time
 - that the debtor has committed an “act of bankruptcy” within the six months before presentation of the petition.
- 7.2. The relevant “acts of bankruptcy” are outlined in section 40 of the Act and one such act is where a debtor who has been served with a bankruptcy notice does not comply.
- 7.3. More information about filing a creditor’s petition is contained in ORPS3 – Bankruptcy by sequestration order and the Federal Court’s Bankruptcy Guide.

Costs of the petitioning creditor

- 7.4. Where a creditor successfully petitions the court to have a sequestration order made, that creditor may be entitled to have his or her costs paid (if sufficient funds are realised by the trustee in the bankrupt estate) ahead of certain other disbursements from the estate. However, for this to occur, the sequestration order itself must either fix the costs or provide for the petitioning creditor’s taxed costs to be paid from the estate in accordance with the priorities in the Act.
- 7.5. Although not a bankruptcy notice requirement, the Official Receiver encourages creditors to request that the court fix costs in a sequestration order, to overcome delays of having to go back to court to get an order allowing for costs to be paid in and also to overcome the need to have costs taxed where the order itself doesn’t specify a dollar amount.

- 7.6. The Federal Court and Federal Circuit Court have similar forms for use in bankruptcy proceedings and the Form 7 – Sequestration order template provides for the following:

“The applicant creditor’s costs be taxed and paid from the estate of the respondent debtor in accordance with the Bankruptcy Act 1966.”

It is therefore recommended that a petitioning creditor ensure that such a clause is inserted in the order or, to avoid the need to have costs taxed, the court specifies a dollar amount as payable to the petitioning creditor.

- 7.7. In the circumstance where a petitioning creditor seeks to have his or her costs paid in priority to certain other disbursements and the order does not provide for this, the creditor will need to go back to the court and obtain a further order to that effect.

8. INSPECTION OF A BANKRUPTCY NOTICE

- 8.1. A bankruptcy notice is not available for public inspection unless and until a creditor’s petition based upon its non-compliance is issued.
- 8.2. The notice can, however, be inspected prior to the issue of a creditor’s petition by the parties to the notice and their agents. Adequate identification is required.
